The Impact of Electronic Publishing on the Academic Community

General Conclusions

In a final session, the convenors of each session presented summaries for discussion. The following conclusions were then reached.

General

1. While there is a movement towards greater use of electronic media in all academic disciplines, important differences between disciplines in the benefits, requirements and applications of electronic publishing have to be recognized.